TRUE COLORS

Overflowing With Color

The true Lancer orange and blue pride overflowed into every aspect of Manchester High School this year. Red-hot excitement overtook MHS students and faculty at in-school pep rallies. Flamboyant fashion entered the building whether the temperature outside was 98 degrees Fahrenheit or 28 degrees Fahrenheit. The spring sunshine greeted brand new athletic fields, making way for MHS sports.

Due to the change in the grading scale, Manchester had more academic stars than ever before. Activities such as Academic Trivia, Spotlight Awards, and Book Talks added to the long list of MHS golden achievements. Brand new organizations, such as Brush-n-Canvas, made a splash by allowing students to broaden their creativity and involvement at Manchester.

All this and more added to the already radiant personalities in MHS. Filtrating this building was a student body full of diversity and uniqueness. While some came "decked out" from head to toe in leather, others decided to take the "casual approach" of blue jeans and docksiders. Many new faces entered with pizazz and freshness, helping returning students reestablish the MHS character of flaming pride and magnificent spirit. It could definitely be said that this year at Manchester we were SHOWING OUR TRUE COLORS.

LANCER LIFE

Each class that comes to Manchester is special in its own way. A certain spirit, or style, sets it apart from the rest. The four classes of the '88-'89 school year are no exception.

Lancer spirit prevailed and achieved our first string of in-school pep-rallies. This aspiring tradition was met by Powder Puff's ever-present one; once again, Seniors were victorious. Shortly after, Greg Mahan and Kristen Mancini were crowned Homecoming King and Queen. For One Shining Moment was the theme to Prom, which was held downtown in the Richmond Center. The arrival of the S. C. A. and Senior assemblies, while recognizing the achievements of outstanding Lancers, covered the school with a sense of finality.

Graduation aroused many memories, while friends and family gathered to show Seniors the door to the future. When the next class arrives, they will see the marks left behind as we have all grown to show our true colors.

SHOWING IT OFF!

"You are what you wear." This has never been more true in Lancer history. Anything from jean jackets to formal gowns have been donned at some point during the year. Students' favorite styles included: stone-washed jeans, big scarves, hundreds of bracelets, stretch pants, long, printed skirts, mini-mini skirts, flip-down glasses, and many others. But we didn't stop there. During Christmas, Lancers sported Santa hats, and fifth period teachers competed for the prize of best costume. Just before the arrival of spring, family living classes prepared for their annual mock weddings. With tuxedos and bridal gowns rented, the affairs went off without a hitch. Throughout the nine months we were together, Lancers forged their individual styles and showed their True Colors.

MASQUERADE PARADE

HOMECOMING: IN FULL COSTUME

Students remained after school on Friday, October 28, 1988, to prepare their floats. Each class and club competed with the hopes of being chosen as the best. After many hours of hard work, the Sophomore Class and S. A. D. D. — (A Club to Promote Highway Safety) entered the winning displays. Led by the marching band, all of the Lancers showed their spirit by screaming and cheering as they paraded around the track prior to the game, thus showing their true colors.

At halftime the homecoming court took over the field. The princes were escorted by their mothers and the princesses by their fathers. Beth Cabral and Todd McCarthy, the reigning Queen and King, were also in attendance to crown their successors. Tension mounted as they walked behind the nominees. Greg Mahan and Kristen Mancini were the lucky couple of the evening. They stood on the field with Mr. Jones and Mrs. Headley as they posed for pictures. Hugs and tears sealed the moment as Greg and Kristen stood before the crowd. The roses may have lasted only a week, but the memories of the evening will last both of them a lifetime.

MIDNIGHT MASQUERADE

What a weekend! On Friday afternoon students worked frantically to finish their club and class floats. After rushing home for a quick change and a bite to eat, they returned for the festivities.

The evening began with the parade of floats and the Homecoming Princes and Princesses. Following this, the football players dashed on to the field to battle the Monarchs of Meadowbrook. The Lancers put up a good fight, but the victory went to the Monarchs.

The Homecoming Dance was held the following evening. This year's theme was Midnight Masquerade. The Manchester cafeteria was transformed into a dance floor by the many decorations supplied by the S. C. A. Under the pink and black balloons, many couples danced to the music of Krakajax. Reigning as King and Queen, Greg Mahan and Kristen Mancini led the student body in the first slow dance of the evening. As the night came to a close and the crowd began to dwindle, the S. C. A. members stayed behind to wash away the memories.

Coming off a tough loss to the class of '88, the Seniors were ready to win on Saturday, October 15, 1988. Seasoned Seniors looked impressive as they took on the inexperienced Juniors. Key plays by Susan Ferrel, Sonia Austin, and Stacie Blunt led the Seniors to an easy 32-0 victory.

Even though the Junior girls displayed a promising offense and defense, most Seniors will agree that the practice was more difficult than the game.

Thanks to the hard work of their coaches, both teams put on a great game. Seniors were led by Ms. Leighty, Mr. Wyncoop, Tip Baker, Mike Ferrel, and Rodney Inge, while Ms. Chaconas, Mr. Lockhart, Ray Smith, Darryl Moody, and Bobby Morris coached the Juniors.

SPIRIT!

LET'S HEAR IT

Thanks to the persistent cheerleaders and supportive faculty, this year Manchester was able to hold its first in-school pep rallies in four years. Students were directed from their classes to the gym as the band toured the building. Activities included pie throwing and wheel barrow racing. Lancer spirit at the pep rallies ended in a home victory over our biggest rival — the Monacon Chiefs, in football and basketball.

The pep rallies were not the only opportunities in which Lancers cheered on their teams. Homecoming, being on Halloween, had a special excitement; and the Powder Puff game was filled with the usual antics. At a high point, the varsity basketball team defeated first place Petersburg. All through the year, Lancers showed their true colors.

FACING OFF

SENIOR/FACULTY BASKETBALL

On March 8, 1989 the annual Senior/Faculty game was held in the Manchester gymnasium. As usual, the seniors were legally victorious over the out-classed faculty. Key plays by Johnny Garrett and Susan Ferrel contributed to the Seniors' decisive conquest, while Mr. Jones' valiant efforts kept the fading faculty hopes alive. But the hero of the evening was John Winn when Mr. Jones hoisted him upon his shoulders for the only slam dunk of the game.

Arriving late, Yuri Barnes made his grand entrance for the half-time show: the slam dunk contest. He proved that the seniors were not the only ones who could play basketball by winning with virtually no competition.

The evening, however, would not have been complete without the enthusiastic support of the faculty cheerleaders. Their rehearsed performance showed their true dedication to their peers. The night was a huge success as many students enjoyed watching their teachers show their true colors. New students were also able to experience this Manchester tradition in support of their fellow classmates.

TAMING OF THE SHREW

Immediately following Spring Break, Manchester plunged into its Shakespearean festival. Amidst activities planned by the English department was the annual spring play. This year, in honor of the school's celebration, director Ray Goss chose to produce Taming of the Shrew. Members of the Triptych Players performing the classic included lead roles by Claudia Turner, Aaron Dotson, Carlton Reisa, and Peter Smith with a host of other fine actors and actresses. The play was featured at the end of the week on April 6, 7, and 8; and it was staged in front of a packed house each night. In many local newspaper write-ups, performances were lauded for their authenticity, fine representation of talent, and sometimes all too realistic scenes. Heated action between leads Claudia Turner and Aaron Dotson left audiences wondering if the theater was such a safe place to work after all, especially after Aaron suffered a broken elbow. Despite this and other minor set-backs, the entire cast helped to make the play and, moreover, the Shakespearean festival a huge success.

FOR ONE SHINING MOMENT

An exciting change from the sweltering DGSC, the 1989 Junior/Senior Prom was held downtown at the Richmond Center. The Junior class spent much time, money, and effort in giving the Seniors a memorable occasion. Not only was the Center well decorated, but the band was also above par. The Press shocked couples as they played such controversial songs as "Add It Up" by the Violent Femmes.

Later in the evening, many outstanding upperclassmen were recognized during Prom Figure for their achievements. They formed the traditional "M" and "89" in representation of the graduating class.

The true highlight of the evening, however, was the selection of the new King and Queen. Honors went to Scott Rudd and Stacy Adkisson. Mr. Jones presented Stacy with a dozen roses just prior to placing the crown upon her date's head. This is one shining moment the couple will treasure forever and that must have remained in their hearts and minds long after leading the rest of the couples in a dance.

Wrapping It Up

The annual SCA assembly awarded honors to many deserving students. Science, English, math, and fine arts were only a few of the areas that presented awards. The PTSA announced the recipients, two from each grade, of the Spirit Awards. For receiving activity points, the SCA awarded monograms and stars. In addition, letters and scholarship pins were awarded to those students who frequently made honor roll. The University of Richmond Book Award and the Jefferson Book Award were also presented. The suspense was ended when Mr. Ron Gunter was announced as the new Teacher of the Year.

The long-awaited day that honored the Class of 1989 finally arrived on Friday, June 2nd. Seniors were given their traditional breakfast, and the young ladies received roses that matched their white dresses.

After breakfast the enthusiastic seniors prepared for the Senior Assembly. It was a chaotic scene as the seniors attempted to line up for the processional. The senior class officers, historian Kim Rudd, and class poet Shanne Francis spoke to their class, underclassmen, the faculty, and many parents. After many scholarships and awards were announced, Stacy Palmer was chosen as the Most Outstanding Senior. After the ceremony many seniors celebrated by partying, going to a park, or basking along the James River while underclassmen remained sweltering at school.

The Final Feast

It was a dark and stormy evening, but spirits were high inside the Holiday Inn Koger Center. On June 2 at 7:30 pm, approximately 130 seniors gathered to enjoy a formal get-together before Graduation. Manchester's finest arrived in suits and party dresses, ready to converse with fellow classmates, eat a tremendous dinner, and listen to the music of Phat! Also attending were the MHS administration, honored faculty members, and Junior Marshalls.

Everyone filled their plates with baked chicken, beef and rice, green beans, rolls, and an assortment of deserts. Postprandial entertainment included melodies from Phat!, Cherise Chambers, Kristen Mancini, and Audra Wilks. The MHS Senior Madrigals also performed a number that drew emotion from the soon-to-be graduates.

Laughter could be heard from the room as Steven Cooter, Christie Parker, Towanna Bryant, Lorin Gray, and June Stell read through the Senior Prophecy. Although some mudslinging did occur, it was all out of innocent fun and humor. Senior sponsor Suzanne Thompkins then announced the winners for superlatives. The categories ranged from Best Dressed to Most Intellectual to Best Looking Legs and Funniest Laugh.

The evening ended at 9:00 pm, and seniors left with Last Will and Testaments at hand. The night was still young, and many went off to enjoy themselves at other activities. Yet, the memory of the evening would be present forever.

THE GRAND FINALE

For the last time, graduating seniors assembled as students of MHS on June 14. The finale of four long years in high school was to occur, and these seniors were ready.

Guests filtered into the Arthur Ashe center around twelve o'clock, and they continued to arrive until one o'clock when the processional of faculty, speakers, and graduates began. The sweltering heat of the building and the murmuring noises from the crowd did not deter the seniors from their path to adulthood. After the invocation, read by Senior Chaplain Christie Parker, Class President Steven Cooter wished the best of luck to the Class of '89, including himself. Valedictorian and class speaker Bruce Myers gave a patriotic speech, and keynote speaker Mr. M. Kirkland Cox gave a "passionate lecture" on the importance of making a difference in the world. The handing out of diplomas then occured, with Mr. David Joves presiding as the distributor and Mr. Ron Gunter acting as annoucer of candidates for graduation. As the final name was called, a loving cheer was heard from the 381 graduates, relatives, and friends. After Mr. Jones announced the seniors as new graduates of Manchester, caps flew, soon to be followed by ties and gowns. The mad parking rush repeated itself, just as before graduation, as Manchester's newest alumni left to take on the world.

ACADEMICS

This Year at Manchester High School, many new and exciting programs were initiated. Among these were the installation of Russian as a foreign language taught at Manchester and the opportunity for students to study Japanese at Monacan High School. To help students better communicate in the foreign language they are now taking, foreign exchange students from Spain and France attended Manchester. As with most high schools in the country, there were a few teachers who stood out from the crowd either due to unique teaching techniques and/or sparkling personalities. Some of these outstanding instructors are highlighted in this section. To help the furthering of educational stimulation, programs such as Battle of the Brains, Model U.N., and Academic Trivia were available to Manchester students. In addition, the departments of Manchester such as debate, Forensics, and Speech aided in refining and sculpting the verbal talents of MHS students. These along with many other things will be highlighted as we journey through the wonderful world of Academics.

Breaking the Mold

Manchester High School has over 100 teachers. Manchester has enthralling teachers who use nonconformist methods to keep their students' attentions. Every teacher has his or her own special virtues. One of the qualities most appreciated by the students is the ability to make learning more interesting.

Mr. Storino, a prime example of such a personality, is a 12th grade English teacher. This creative teacher induces learning by often becoming a one-man drama for his students. Sometimes Mr. Storino becomes so involved in his lessons that his class' laughter, as well as his stentorian voice, can be heard echoing through the halls of the Round Building.

Mr. Cox is most noted for his ability to make US Government fun, exciting, and (occasionally) comprehendible. He adds color to his lectures by reciting personal anecdotes and peppering them with a "liberal" dose of conservative ideology. The student who finds himself unable to fathom the subject will reportedly remain entertained by Mr. Cox's dynamics and the physical delivery of his lectures.

Mr. Henry, a Manchester Chemistry teacher, introduced his methods on the first day of school, when he set a lab counter on fire. As a routine procedure of acknowledging the location of safety equipment, he demonstrated the use of a fire extinguisher. His lectures often involved "creative visualization" from his students, as he often requested them to build concepts from nonexistent objects.

These are just a few of Manchester's special teachers; each one of them work hard each day to help their students surpass their goals.

Lancers Excel In All Areas

The Math department often hosted Virginia Math League contests after school. These contests were short, timed aptitude tests offered to all levels of math taught at Manchester. Students who scored well received schoolwide recognition. All students were encouraged to test their ability and participate.

The Manchester Science department boasted Chesterfield County's best and most qualified teachers. Our science department encouraged excellence and enlightenment among its students by a course offering ranging from Earth Sciences to AP Biology. Students in Biology I this year received a visit from "Snakeman" Doug Eggleston, who brought with him many of his slithery and scaly compatriots. The MHS Science Club regularly supplemented its knowledge with field trips devoted to the study of natural and physical science.

The Manchester History department was equally active and enlightening. Classes received a broad background in the people, places, and events that have shaped world and American culture. Mrs. Easton's AP American/Virginia History course, reportedly the most difficult class at Manchester, entailed hard work and endless dedication from its brave participants. The MHS History Club encouraged knowledge from the whole school when it offered a contest of questions about famous people in history.

Reaching For The Stars

Academic Trivia, in its second year, was a great success. 110 students and 40 faculty members participated in the event this year. The 22 teams, each with up to five members, competed weekly after school. They were asked questions on a broad range of topics by teachers who volunteered their afternoons for the competition. This years winning team consisted of Andy Woodfin, Sharon Scott, Susie Kwok, and Stacy Krupski. This team went on to play a faculty team of Mr. Henry, Mrs. Nuckels, Mr. Goss, and Mrs. Vipperman. The faculty team emerged victorious in this heated match.

Early in the year, several students took a taxing hundred question test. The top five students were chosen by sponsor Mrs. Wilborn to comprise Manchester's Battle of the Brains team. Captain Rachel Morowitz and team members Aaron Dotson, Kevin Walton, Becky Lankey, and Amy Callahan honed their skills by practicing with Trivial Pursuit. However, in their first tough and unfortunate match, the team was narrowly defeated by Clover Hill.

Model U.N. brings together students from all along the East Coast in the spirit of international relations. Representing Manchester as Belgium in the conference were Aaron Dotson, Steve Watts, Joe Snodgrass, Bruce Myers, Micah Dalton, George Townsend, Shannon Howe, Renee Carter, Lilith Brown, and LaTarnya Butts. Aaron Dotson received the honor of being named Best Delegate to the conference. He described the forum as being "very intense and educational, but we managed to have fun, too. Outspoken MHS Students

Manchester's small but mighty Forensics team, coached by Mrs. Dorazio, consisted of Aaron Dotson, Jessica Maerz, Joe Snodgrass, and Claudia Turner. Upon placing first in their respective divisions at district competition, Aaron, Jessica, and Joe advanced to the regional tournament. Manchester made an impressive showing, with Aaron and Jessica placing first and Joe, third. At all-state competition, Aaron again placed first with his version of Robert Service's "Barbed Wire Bull"; Jessica received seventh place. Stated Aaron, "It was my goal to be state champion before I graduated; its my new goal to be state champ for two years in a row!"

Students in Speech 1 are taught the fundamentals of debating, extemporaneous speaking, reading out loud, and conversing more freely with others. Speech student Jennifer Treibly stated, "We have a small class so we have gotten very close. We support and help each other." With their new courage and skill, speech students are surely going to make themselves heard in the years to come.

Manchester's celebrated Debate team once more lived up to its monumental reputation. Varsity debater Steve Watts stated, "I love to argue! It doesn't matter what the issue is either side. I am a sophist." This opinion was a common one among the teams other members. The team's topic this year dealt with prison reform, and the team handled it with expert skill. One debater stated, "Debate can be fun since it challenges you to think and argue more quickly and intensely. It sharpens your analytical skill, and these things can help out in many aspects of life."

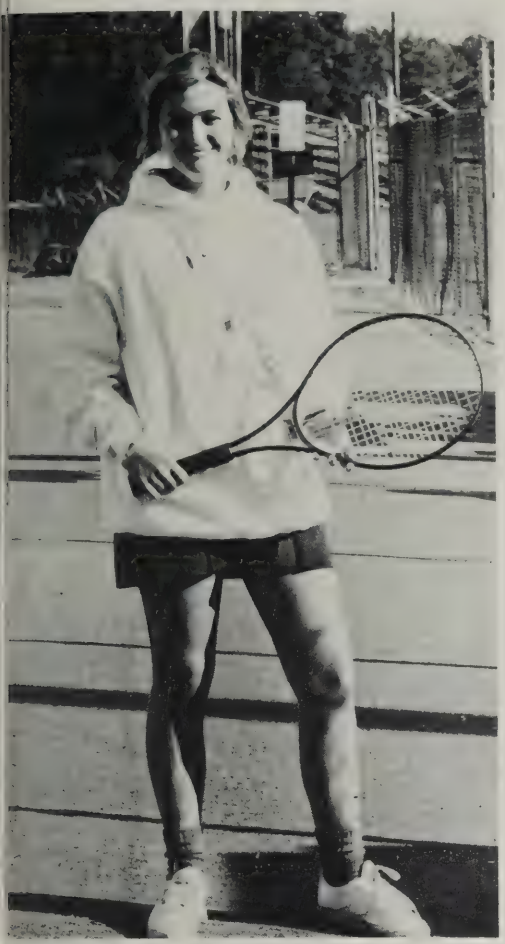
Towards The Future

volving herself in Manchester's activities, Paz is a ember of the tennis team.



Few of the new faces in the halls of Manchester belonged to international exchange students. Manchester hosted two year long foreign students this year, Paz and Arjelia. Paz is a visitor from Spain and is actively involved in many school activities. She was on the tennis team and the softball team. She feels that the best way to make friends is to "get involved". Paz stated, "school in the U.S. is very different from school in Spain. There, you don't have to switch classes, since teachers come to you." When asked her impressions of Manchester and the United States, Paz said, "people here are closer in all aspects; its more like a family. I have met people here that I'll never forget."

Arjelia is visiting from Mexico. She also feels that school is much different here. "In Mexico, we have eleven different subjects compared to the six that are taught here. Yet, the teachers here are better in the sense that they come to class and really want to teach." Arjelia was impressed by the different activities at Manchester. "In Mexico, our only sports team is soccer, and we have no clubs. There is not as much school spirit there as here."

Manchester also hosted two other exchange students, who attended classes. Virginie and Elodie came to the United States from France to visit for two weeks in March.

Taking a step towards the future, Manchester introduced into its curriculum two new foreign languages, Japanese and Russian. Students learning these languages felt that they will be valuable in the future as a result of the world's changing social and economic climate.

Students commuted to neighboring Monacan to study Japanese. "It's a hard language to get used to since its so off the mainstream," remarked one student. Added another, "I enjoy the class, and the teacher is very energetic."

Russian was taught here at Manchester and it quickly became a favorite of the students taking it. "I enjoy Russian because it is so different from my other language, French." Another Russian student added, "We are learning about the Soviet culture as well as the language. I think it is good to have the Russian language in American schools; its another step towards friendly world relations."

A Blast From The Past

Manchester's first literary festival focused upon the life, times and works of Elizabethan dramatist William Shakespeare. For five days in April, Manchester was immersed in the time period. Introducing the festival was an exhibit entitled "Shakespeare and the Age of Elizabeth I" on display in the library. On the first day, troupes of students and faculty members performed excerpts from Shakespeare's plays, and choral students performed madrigals. A newspaper written entirely by English and creative writing classes, entitled The Shakespeare Speare, was distributed. Many guest speakers lectured on Shakespeare and the Elizabethan era. Among our guests were Bo Wilson of Theatre Virginia, William Griffin from VCU, and Elliot Engel from North Carolina State University. The student body was treated to poetry readings by Poetry Alive! and the theatrical gifts of the North Carolina Shakespeare Festival. Manchester's own presentation of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" coincided with the festival. English teachers Elizabeth Murray and Kathryn Wilborn worked for literally a year to make the festival the soaring success that it was.

My senior year passed like a summer breeze — refreshing and fun. It was great while it lasted, but it's almost over now, and we have a bright future ahead. — Shane Francis

High School was a bittersweet time for me — I loved it and I hated it. Now that I've grown accustomed to its rhyme and reason, I'm leaving. I laughed and I cried for Manchester, but more importantly I grew up within its walls. For this I will always owe a painful but unrepayable debt to my alma mater.

Nights In White Satin

Homecoming is a special time of the year, especially for those chosen to be in the Homecoming Court. For Mike Ford, Brian Glauser, and Jimmy Bell, representing their class was a new experience, but for Johnny Garrett and Greg Mahan it was a repeat performance. Johnny and Greg were Princes last year, too. Greg Mahan was crowned Homecoming King, and he was overjoyed. "Other than being a big surprise, it was the coolest thing to happen to me all year," said Greg.

Some new senior girls were also selected. For Kristin Mancini and Kim Cyrus, it was an exciting event. Kristin was thrilled to become Homecoming Queen. "It was a great honor, truly a memorable experience that I will never forget," she said. Princesses Stacey Carter, Cherise Chambers, and Stephene Gwaltney were familiar with the Homecoming Court, for they had also participated in previous years.

As newly crowned King and Queen, Greg Mahan and Kristin Mancini soak up the limelight.

Two of a Kind

When August rolls around, only one thought dominates Bruce Myers' mind: football. The ardent Redskin fan can almost always be spotted sporting Washington's colors.

Not only is Bruce dedicated to the Redskins, but he is also avidly interested in politics. Although appearing to be ultra-conservative, at times an inner liberal nature will evoke itself.

Although reserved and dignified when in the public spotlight, Bruce freely expresses a creative and fun-loving wit when few people are around to see him.

In addition to his unique personality, this diligent Valedictorian has never received a grade lower than an A on a report card. — Becky Lankey

Anyone who goes to Becky Lankey's house has a simple choice: either be a fan of sixties rock or bring ear plugs. Whenever Becky is not on the go — and even when she is — one can count on hearing The Who or The Doors in the background.

When her hand isn't on a cassette, it can usually be found on a hockey stick. Becky plays hockey with the best of them — I still don't know how to hold the stick.

Academically, Becky has helped me throughout high school. She can back up her answer like nobody else — it still amazes me.

Whether she's teaching me to water ski, snow ski, or to solve a calculus problem, I'll always find something new to learn from her. — Bruce Myers

Lean on me. Valedictorian Bruce Myers and Salutatorian Becky Lankey.

Hello again! Bruce and Becky both plan to continue their education at UVA.

In a tough game against Meadowbrook, Captai Becky Lankey and junior Shannon Hatcher await th next play.

Pausing between numbers, Bruce Myers and Robe Pannell wait for their cue.

Fieldhouse Blues

One of the first major activities of the school year is the annual Powder Puff game. The males and females of the junior and senior classes reverse their traditional roles, with the girls battling it out on the gridiron and the guys cheering them on. The cheerleaders were quite adorable as they sported their high cut shorts and sometimes "oddly shaped" cleavage.

The senior girls endured many hours of grueling practice in preparation for the big matchup, but as Lea Armentrout commented, "Even the practices were fun."

The many days of practice and the game itself continued a Manchester tradition. "I had a lot of fun," said Sandy Tobias. "It's one of those senior activities you don't want to miss out on."

Much tension always exists between the senior "blue machine" and the junior "orange crush," and the seniors were even more determined to win the '88-89 game after their defeat as juniors the previous year. Senior English instructor Donne Storino gave play-by-play commentary and served as color-man for the annual football game. The class of '89 came out on top as it crushed the juniors 32-0 and enjoyed sweet revenge.

Cheering the "blue machine" on to victory, the senior cheerleaders act like old pros.

Student Athletes

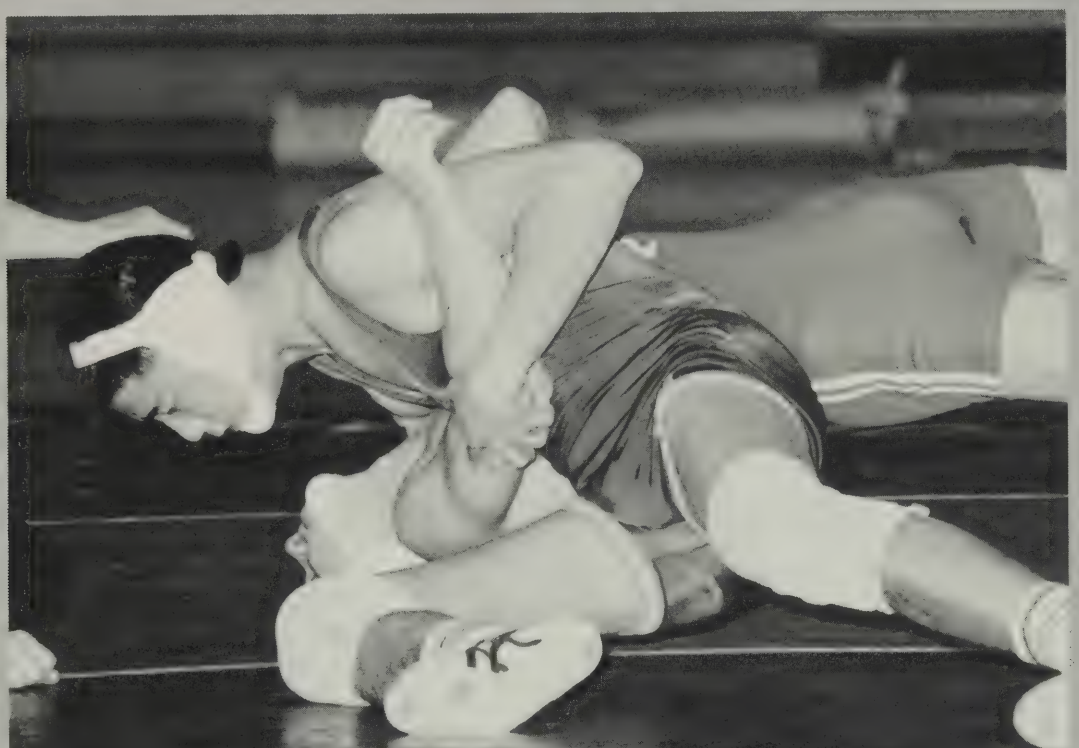
The class of '89 was gifted with both talented sportsmen and modest scholars in Mike Lim and Kim Rudd. Both embraced high levels of academic performance in addition to superior athletic talent.

Athletically, Mike was a standout in Tennis and Wrestling. Kim, too, was an all-around athlete. From Cheering Squad Captain to Softball, she gave her all to Manchester athletics.

Mike saw time as the key factor to his success. "I've put a lot of time into it," he said, "from wrestling camps to Saturday and holiday workouts. It's dedication. If you miss a practice, you're out of it."

Off the field, Mike and Kim continued to make Manchester proud. A quiet student, Mike was inducted into NHS during his junior year. Kim, meanwhile, became a key figure in the SCA. Her suggestions were taken seriously by the administration as well as by other students. For her efforts, Kim was voted "Most School Spirited" by her class.

Said a fellow classmate, "Kim's spirit and dedication to Manchester are incredible. She's an inspiration."



Poised to take notes, Kim Rudd listens attentively to the teacher.

With a look of concentration, Mike Lim proves his skill.

Wearing her favorite tie-dye, Becky Lankey enjoys Manchester's 60's celebration.

My Generation

Seniors expressed their spirit for the Age of Aquarius by donning a variety of 60's outfits. Karma emanated from love beads and peace signs. Anti-war slogans decorated a melange of T-shirts, army attire, and bell-bottoms. An array of psychedelic tie-dyes displayed every color of the rainbow and more, and others supported 60's bands such as The Doors, The Who, and The Grateful Dead with various rock music paraphenelia. Manchester's nostalgic trip through the decade culminated in the 50's-60's sock up. Seniors jammed to the music of Steppenwolf and the Beatles. Although our generation is two decades after the tumultuous 60's, we can still celebrate the classic music and fervor for living that characterized the era.

When I was seventeen,
It was a very good year.

So what you'd get?" Hodges Rash, Brandt Thompson, and Daryl Tracy check out their cap and gown orders.

The Graduate

On April 10, 1989, Manchester seniors took their first tangible step towards graduation. Filing through the cafeteria in anxious lines, they received the long-awaited caps, gowns, and announcements. Students bubbled with anticipation while trading announcement cards and counting the days until June 14. Said Ryan Haynes, "It was a big step. The realization finally hit that we were almost out of school. One part of my life was ending, and another was beginning. The caps and gowns are quite symbolic."

Feeling the same blend of happiness and sorrow, Neil Ryan agreed. "Getting caps and gowns was an emotional high, but it was also kind of scary because we are leaving."

With the delivery of caps and gowns, the class of 1989 prepared to say its last good byes to Manchester High School. Once a nebulous dream, graduation had begun to crystallize. Asserting the freedom that was soon to come, many seniors saw fit to wear their caps throughout the rest of the school day.

Dream Weavers

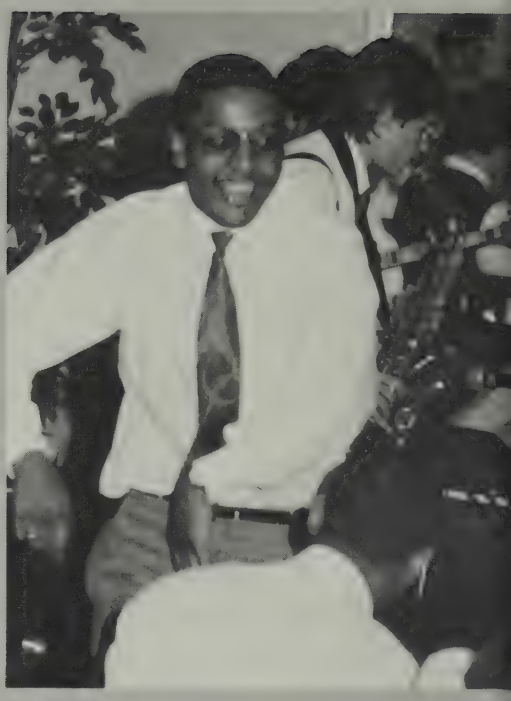
On June 2, the Class of 1989 held their banquet at the Holiday Inn Koger Center. In spite of the stormy night, many seniors participated in the festivities.

After dinner, the senior class officers read the class prophecy. Other postprandial activities included the announcement of senior superlatives, and those elected to these honors had their photographs taken.

The highlight of the evening was the wide variety of superb musical entertainment. Bruce Myers, Phil Nunnally, Robert Pannell, Chris Ray, and John Winn performed as the band Phat. The quintet rocked the banquet hall with songs such as "Purple Haze" and "Helter Skelter." Reflecting on the evening, John Winn commented, "It was great. I loved it. It was better than Cats. I'd do it over and over again." Rachel Morowitz added, "The band was great, and I wish they could have played longer."

Adding their musical talents, Cherise Chambers, Kristin Mancini, and Audra Wilks each performed a beautiful solo.

At the close of the last evening that the Class of 1989 would spend together, the seniors received the Last Will and Testament. With graduation only twelve days away, the night fanned the flame of excitement as seniors anticipated the days to come.



Get down! Keith Harper dances to the music as Bruce Myers plays his saxophone.

Whole Lotta Flair

For all of her hard work, Stacy Palmer was chosen as Manchester's Outstanding Graduate for '89.

As SCA President, Stacy Palmer had completed the ladder of leadership roles at MHS. She was Vice-President of her freshman class, President of her sophomore class, reporter — historian for the SCA in her junior year, and an SCA representative for two years. All of these activities helped Stacy "learn to work with others cooperatively" and whetted her appetite for responsibility.

Being SCA President was a hectic but valuable time for Stacy. "Homecoming was a lot of running around," she said. "I had to check with the principals and count votes for princesses." Even though Stacy stayed busy as President, she learned to delegate authority to others. She spent an average of six hours a week on SCA and often became bogged down with "little things" like making phone calls and adjusting dates. This was in addition to three AP classes and an NHS office.

"People complain about SCA," said Stacy, "but a lot of students don't know what it is. SCA is everyone's responsibility. We want suggestions; we can't do everything."

This may be true, but in her four years as a multi-talented, capable leader, Stacy has certainly come close to doing to all. As one SCA member said, "It's just a flair that she has for making it all fall into place."

Getting down to business, Stacy Palmer organizes her notes for the SCA's next order of business.

Sweet Virginia breeze! Stacy Palmer and Kristin Turner enjoy a beautiful day.

True Grit

The senior officers for the class of '89 showed their true grit by banding together as a team and pulling the senior class through choppy waters. While the senior class showed an occasional lack of enthusiasm, the officers never failed to provide a rallying point for school spirit. Steve Cooter was President, June Stell was Vice-President, Audra Wilks served as Secretary, Tawana Bryant acted as Treasurer, and Christie Parker filled the role of Chaplain.

In reference to the Homecoming parade and the seniors' whirlwind construction of a float, Steve commented, "We were the fastest float makers in Manchester history!"

The officers spearheaded the senior food drive, and the class contributed their time, money, and canned goods for the holiday season.

Togetherness was a key, according to Christie. "We did everything together in the end, like counting votes for speakers at senior functions or tallying nominations for superlatives," she said. "It's really rewarding."

"It helped me give back a little of what Manchester and the class of '89 had given me — education, experience, leadership, and a lifetime of memories," added Steve.

Official Business

From 1988-1989, class officers seemed to have had their work cut out for them. Early in the year, they had to start a rigorous campaign to raise money to add to the Junior class fund which guaranteed a great Senior prom. No one seemed to quite understand how hard a class officer's work is. Juniors, however, can be assured that the best possible performances were put forth by President Aaron Dotson, Vice-President Kevin Walton, Treasurer Denise Pasquantino, Secretary Tonya Hagen, and Historian Victor Hoerst. Their work actually started with last year's elections. Much time and energy was spent on making campaign paraphenelia and preparing speeches.

Being elected a class officer was a great honor and a great responsibility also. Each officer must be committed to his goal which is to serve the Junior class with pride and devotion. With such fine officers, the Junior class year was very promising indeed.

Mr. Barber, the Junior class sponsor, poses with class officers.

Girls Turn Tuff in Powderpuff

Tradition Is Kept Alive

There are many activities that juniors looked forward to as the year began. One of the highlights was the annual Powderpuff game between junior and senior girls. Long hours of practice were endured by the junior girls as they prepared to meet the challenge of the seniors. Yet, we tend to overlook the long hours of practice put in by another group of "girls." They, of course, are the junior Powderpuff cheerleaders: David Hurley, Jason Knight, Jimmy Alley, Carlton Reisa, Bret Hines, Rodney Ballard, and Richard Owen. Several afternoons were devoted to learning the moves and cheers that a regular cheerleader performs, with the help of varsity cheerleaders Julie Barnes, Melanie Abernathy, and Jeanine Burkeen.

On the night of October 15, the boys, dressed in outrageous cheering outfits complete with wigs, make-up, and chests blown out of proportion, gave it their all as they aroused spirit on the junior side of Lancer Stadium. Their performance brought plenty of enthusiasm and laughs, and one might say that they themselves "stole the show."

Working as hard as the guys on the field, the girls discuss their strategy.

Pre-College ANXIETY

It's finally time for one of the most challenging moments in a student's life. Yes, it's time to pick a college. Many students who wish to further their education look into and investigate colleges and universities that are of interest. A student usually starts this research process in the junior year with the help of guidance counselors and college brochures. Some students visit the campus to see if it is to their liking. This big step into becoming a senior, or more so, an adult, is an important factor in deciding the course of one's future.

One of the most difficult, but important, factors in determining what college to apply to is the SAT score. Juniors usually take their first SAT in the spring. The PSAT, which is given in October, helps to set the pace for the real thing. However, the tension and worrying do not end after the SAT. There's that time in between the minute one finishes the SAT and when the scores come about five weeks later. Other important decision makers for acceptance to a college or university are scholastic achievement, extracurricular activities, writing ability, leadership, and community service. To succeed in choosing the right college, one must know the rules of the admissions process.

"It's hard to find that perfect college that fits your needs, especially one that will benefit your major if it's an unusual one." — Kim Pope

"The thought of taking the SAT's really frightened me, but I'm glad that it's finally over with. I'm really interested in UVA and William and Mary." — Megan Lamb.

"The SAT's were hard, long, and excruciating."

— Denise Pasquantino.

"When I saw the reading comprehension part in the verbal section, I nearly freaked!" — anonymous

Ringing In The Junior Year

Receiving class rings was a moment of reality to all juniors. It was hard to believe that one small gold or silver artifact officiated that the class of '90 was one step closer to the top of the ladder. Ordering the rings at the beginning of their sophomore year was exciting, but receiving them was truly the climax. Anticipation reached its peak when, on September 22, juniors filed into the auditorium to go through the traditional ring ceremony. The class officers were presented their rings first by Mr. Johnson, and then lines were formed for juniors to obtain their long awaited rings.

Soon afterwards pandemonium broke out. Juniors sought out their friends to turn their rings ninety times. They raced to see who could be the first to get the required number of turns. Some juniors even had people whom they did not know turn their rings. The final turn needed to lock the ring was usually reserved for someone special.

"Now I can show people that I'm a junior by conspicuously waving my hand around."

— Susan Burnup

"The event was almost as exciting as a day in Mr. Cox's government class. Maybe even more so."

— Anonymous

SOPHOMORES

Bringing In The Bucks

The year started off with a bang for the sophomore class with a first place for their outstanding float in the Homecoming Parade. The hard working officers, Matt Robertson (president), Lilith Brown (vice president), Brian VandenBroek (treasurer), and Charity Wilson (secretary), along with many other students, volunteered their best effort. The result was a prize winning display. The next success for the Sophomore class was the fund raiser. With the support and effort of the class officers, students sold close to $2000 in fruit, raising the class's treasury by 100%. The adopt-a-family also involved a lot of teamwork. The class officers were responsible for gathering food, clothes, and toys for the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. It too was a success due to our hard working class officers and student volunteers. With the class officers leading the way, the Sophomore class of '91 has attained many accomplishments.

We Have Spirit

Hiding behind black masks and crowded onto the float, the class of 1991 represented not only Homecoming's theme, "Midnight Masquerade", but true school spirit. Many hours of hard work were donated to produce the Sophomore class winning float. The float was painted and decorated at Ashley Hagen's house over a period of a week. The number of students who helped was phenomenal, and this support was greatly appreciated by everyone because it helped the Sophomore class to take first place.

Matt Sulanke and Tracey Spivey were elected again this year as prince and princess accompanied by Steve Ambler and Anne Daniel who also represented the proud Sophomore class. Both Matt and Steve were football players, and Tracey and Anne participated in Girl's Show Choir. Anne was also a member of the field hockey team. Homecoming is an exciting time for everyone, and it will be especially memorable for the class of 1991.

Time and effort paid off when the Sophomores won first place for their float.

Reflections

Manchester's class of '91 came back with a scintillating spirit like never before! The hard work preparing for the Homecoming Parade finally paid off when the Sophomore float won first place. Their next project involved selling fresh fruit to raise money for the treasury. The top seller of this endeavor was Brian VandenBroek, who was awarded with a $100 prize.

Throughout the course of the year, many Sophomores prepared to receive their licenses by taking Driver's Education. Along with a few new cars, the parking lot also saw a few near misses.

The reality that the Sophomores were soon to be upperclassmen was felt when rings were ordered in the spring. The accomplishments of the past year promise to bring a renewed vitality to the new Junior class!

Winners of the fruit sale, Brian VandenBroek, Dawnetta Davis and Amy Cowardin, display their well earned prizes.

HEAD of the CLASS

Our Freshmen Class Officers: Stephanie Goode, Natalie Evans, Suzie Lowman, John Foster, and Sponsor Kara Chaconas.

Excited to be a freshmen!

Becoming involved in high school activities is an important aspect of freshmen life. Four individuals got an early taste of this by becoming freshmen class officers. They were the following: Natalie Evans, president; John Foster, vice president; Suzie Lowman, secretary; and Stephanie Goode, treasurer. After being elected at the beginning of the school year by fellow classmates, the officers began to organize a year full of activities and fundraisers. After completing the Homecoming float, freshmen had to sponsor a family of seven for Thanksgiving dinner and Christmas presents. Afterwards, they began to raise money by selling candy bars and M & M's. All of their money was earned for upperclassmen activities and events, particularly prom. "We don't want to go into debt; we want to begin early so that we will have money to play around with when we beome juniors," said Stephanie Goode. Due to the dedication fo these four freshmen, the class of '92 has many good years to come at MHS.

Telling It Like It Is

FRESHMEN WORRIES

"On September 6, 1988, I joined three hundred other freshmen at Manchester High School. I was nervous but excited about the upcoming year and the possibilities of a more challenging social and academic environment. I had many of the same fears commonly felt by first day freshmen. I would get lost. I would look foolish. I would be unprepared for courses. I would be alone. I wouldn't see any familiar faces. The list goes on."

"Fortunately, none of these fears came true. Instead my day more than matched my expectations of a challenging social and academic surrounding. I met friendly people, saw old classmates, and talked of exciting classes. I was pleased to discover that I would be given much more responsibility for myself and my work. My first day of high school left me anticipating the rest of my freshmen year."

— Allison Haymes

Siblings: Side by Side

A BLESSING IN DISGUISE

Students here at Manchester rely on their sisters and brothers for many things. For what, one may ask? There are many examples in response to this question. The oldest child of families, who know how to drive, frequently provide transportation for his younger siblings to get to school. He can also aid by giving advice on teachers he has had in previous years, such as what to do or not to do and say or not say in their class. Because of these tips and help received from older brothers and sisters, students with siblings often have an advantage over students without an older sibling. Therefore, do not take these conveniences for granted; appreciate and be grateful for your sisters and your brothers!

"It's great having an older brother to talk to, and someone who understands everything I'm going through!"
— Stacy Spradlin

"It's been fun watching my little sister grow up and share some of the same high school experiences I had."
— Scott Spradlin

"He tries to act like he doesn't care but he is really too protective of me."
— Jenny Edquest

"I respect her because she looks up to me."

An Addition to Tradition

FRESHMEN FLOAT AND ROYALTY

The class of '92 started the year with a bang by joining upperclassmen in the Homecoming float competition. Working with the theme of "Midnight Madness", freshmen successfully put together an excellent float despite the limited amount of money and time. With the help of many parents, the students were able to collect many of the basic materials needed to build a float. The sponsors, Miss Kara Chaconas and Miss Ellen Seay, gave helpful suggestions and answered many questions for the people that worked on this task. Because of their hard work, the class of '92 achieved a second place finish in the competition. What they lacked in experience they made up for in effort.

Freshmen also became involved in MHS festivities by picking princes and princesses. At Homecoming halftime, four spirited students were honored with such titles. Stephanie Goode and Shannon Nelms were chosen as Princesses, and Justin Lowe and Ben Swain were picked to be Princes. By participating in the Homecoming festivities, this year's freshmen joined upperclassmen in carrying on the MHS tradition.

The Heat Is ON!

Clammy hands, nervous stomachs and boggled minds were all symptoms of "exam fever". Exam time was a hectic time for everyone at MHS, especially for the freshmen. The dreaded word, "exam", gave these novice exam-takers the jitters. Not knowing how and what to study was only half of the anxiety attack. Knowing that this grade was twenty percent of the semester grade was what makes this time of year hated. Many upper classmen had exam-taking down to a skill, which also put stress on freshmen. These first year exam-takers, took all their books home to study.

All the studying usually paid off with a good grade. School was back to normal until the next exam time.

Faculty

Working with other teachers Mrs. Harris makes plans for the new school year.

Diane Harris
Teacher of the Year

The recipient of this year's Teacher of the Year award is none other than Diane Harris. Mrs. Harris currently teaches English 12 and Speech I. She also has a B.S. from Longwood College.

Her forte lies within her teaching style. Mrs. Harris doesn't stifle her classes with tedious lectures. She strives for creativity and enthusiasm in the classroom, stimulating learning through challenging yet enjoyable classroom experiences. Treating each student as an individual with different needs and desires than others results in tremendous returns from each pupil.

Outside the classroom, Mrs. Harris spend much of her time with her two daughters. She was also a key element in helping Superintendent, E. E. Davis, with the Speech I curriculum.

Mrs. Harris' unique teaching style and devotion to other activities make her a valuable asset to Manchester High School. Both students and faculty are grateful for the contributions she has made.

Faculty Fervor

From the muffled but sincere V — I — C — T — O — R — Y's at the pep rallys to Mr. Henry's orange checkered pants, we have one of the most spirited faculty groups around. Braving reptiles and bearing absurd Christmas costumes is not the limit of this group's ardor. They walk into an undeniable defeat at the hands of the seniors on the basketball court but return the favor by thrashing the #1 Academic Trivia Team 550 to 150.

There is no end. They are to be seen at every football and basketball game, cheering win or lose. Object of endless ridicule and humiliation at pep rallies, they remain faithful and true, standing behind their Lancers.

Mrs. Arbaugh is seen here showing school spirit, sporting her Santa Sack.

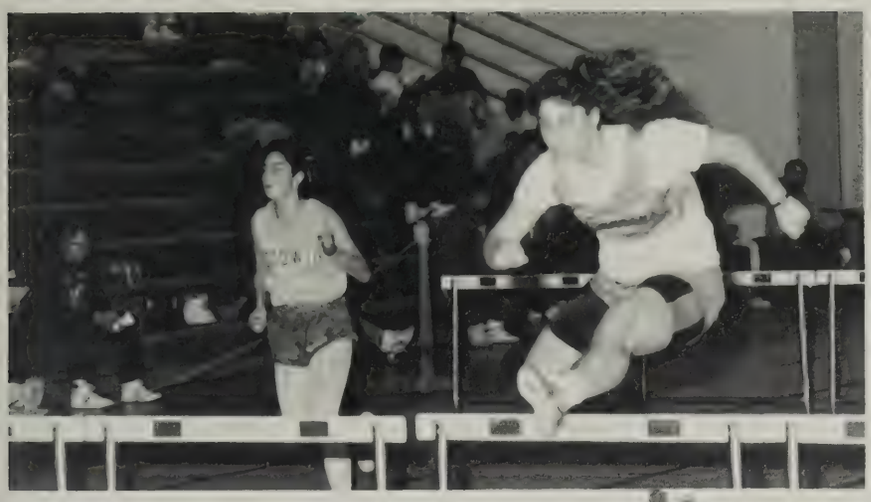
showing our SPORTS

Athletes at Manchester are not only enjoyable, but also competitive. Every sport, regardless of their record, has a great sense of pride and accomplishment which is exhibited through remarkable team effort. Team togetherness and support were evident throughout the first year of participation in Central, rather than Dominion, District sports. We did extremely well in fall, winter, and spring sports. We were competitive in the district, and several teams even came home as District Champions. Overall, our teams made us proud again this year, and we look forward to future seasons of comparable success.

Team effort made our girls District Champs.

"Are you ever going to put me in, Coach?" thinks Heather Valenta.



Leaping forward to victory, Monique Povedano excels in hurdles.

"We're waiting!"

A Good Team Effort

During the football season, both Varsity and Junior Varsity experienced very difficult moments, but they managed to touchdown another exciting year. Ryan Moss of the JV team mentions, "We tried hard to have a winning season because we were playing to win." The Colonial Heights game was a very demanding one for the Varsity team. They managed to give the undefeated team a tough challenge. Captain Darryl DeBerry expresses his view on that game, "We came in as the underdogs and ended up almost winning the game. It was extremely close." The JV team had an outstanding victory over Clover Hill by the score of 22-21. The team stuck together to win.

Despite several losses from both teams, some of the players were recognized for their superb efforts. Being on the District team is a tremendous honor for Manchester and its players. The skilled ones who were chosen are captain Mark Sulanke, first team, Perry Kerney and Mark Sulanke, second team, and Honorable Mention was given to Ron Tatum. Mark Sulanke concludes, "Although our record didn't show it, our season was a success."

High Hopes

Coach Smith's words proved to be true as he stated last year that, "we will be changing Districts next year so we are hoping for an improvement in our record." This is exactly what the golf team achieved and quite impressively, too. The team was very pleased to improve last year's record of6-10 to a 7-5 District record and an overall record of 10-10. The four top golfers from last year returned making the task of receiving third in the District easier.

Hodges Rash received the Coach's Award while J.R. Hanley was named the Most Improved Player. The team is looking forward to an even more prosperous season next year. Bret Hine's feelings about next year are encouraging, "I believe in 89 we will be a healthy force in the Region because of our five returning seniors." Due to the improvements made this year, the Lancer golf team will have an even better season next year.

A Great Effort

The girl's basketball teams put forth a good effort this year. The varsity team, coached by Robyn Goff, tied for third in the District with a District record of 8-7 and a overall record of 10-11. The varsity team had two members who placed on the All District Team. They were Susan Ferrell, First Team, and Sonia Austin, Second Team. Susan went on to make the Second Team All Region. With only three seniors graduating next year, the team should be a strong force next year.

Some of the strong J.V. players will also help the team next year. The J.V. team was headed by Coach Gilbert. The team ended with a District record of 1-13 and an overall record 1-19. They worked well together and tried their hardest. Next year the teams should be real contenders. As Traci Brink concludes, "Our team improved with every game. We worked well together and next year should be an exciting one."

Strong Serves

The Girls' Tennis Team had a wonderful season being undefeated in the District with a record of 7-0. They had an overall record of 10-2. Jacki Campbell, Most Valuable Player, and Susan Mattox went to Regionals. Both of these girls made the All District Teams. The team also had a foreign exchange student, Paz Falero. It was a great season. Susan Matthews concludes, "The hard work of Coach Greenwood and the whole team helped us end our exciting season undefeated. We are losing some of our best players, Stacie Adkisson, Susan Mattox, and Katherine Gregory; but we are expecting another great season with our many returning players," concludes Susan Matthews.

The Boys' Team had a fine season. They placed second in Districts with an overall record of 7-4. Winning 10 out of his 12 matches, Brent Bell helped the team finish so well. He was named Most Valuable Player and was recognized on the All District team along with Jeff Campbell. Kelly Burrows was recognized as the Most Improved player. As Chip Crabtree concludes "We learned how to play together as well as having fun. We are looking forward to next year because we have so many talented players returning."

A Great Job!

The Manchester basketball teams had yet another prominent season. The Varsity team defeated a major rival, Petersburg, which showed the great strength of the team.

With the varsity record of 16-6 and the J.V. of 12-8, the Manchester teams were well represented. Leading the varsity pack were Coach Smith and Coach Beltman. The J.V. was headed by Coach Henthorn. The Manchester students and faculty were certainly proud of these two prosperous teams.

Yuri Barnes was a important part of the teams success. He made the First Team All District and the First Team All Region. Johnny Garrett was selected for the Second Team All District, and Jimmy Bell received Honorable Mention. All of the tiring practices paid off. As Johnny Garrett notes, "The whole team appreciates all the time and effort given to us by Coach Smith and Coach Beltman." Mark Briley concludes, "I'm looking forward to bigger and better accomplishments next year."

Another Great Track Season

The performance this spring in Track and Field was impressive, as it always has been. The boy's team finished with an overall record of 4-6 and a district record of 4-3. They finished fourth in the district for the season and fifth at the district meet. Jeff Jones, Robert Martin, Brian Vandenbroek, and Chang Kim broke a record in the 4 by 800 relay this season. The girls finished undefeated this season, with an overall record of 10-0 and a district record of 7-0. The Lady Lancers finished first in the district season and also at the district meet. At the regional meet they won an impressive second place. Susan Ferrel broke two records and Sonia Austin broke five. The relay teams also broke records. The girls definitely contributed to the District Sports Award that was received by Manchester. Both teams worked hard and had excellent seasons.

The J.V. team was lead by Coach Beltman. They placed last in the District with an overall record of 3-13. The change to the new District made it very hard for both teams. Hard Work + Talent = Success

A determined Lancer stays on the ball.

Last season, Coach Ted Jones said that the "future looks promising." This proved to be true, as the Lancers finished the season with a 13-3 overall record. By finishing first in the district tournament and second in the district, this Varsity soccer season was one of the boys' most successful. Dario Arevalo, Sigi Fenyes, Chad Labbott, and Greg Mahan made First-District team, with Brian Glauser and Troy Kozlwski receiving Second-Team honors. Dario Arevalo and Greg Mahan also made the First-Regional team, while Chad Labbott and Sigi Fenyes made the Second-Regional team.

As this year's season did, next year's future looks bright. At the annual banquet, Most Valuable Player awards were given to Dario Arevalo, of Varsity, and Demus Oxford, of the J.V. team. Most Improved Player awards were received by Brian Glauser and Mike Mongiello. Most Dedicated Player was given to Troy Kozlowski. Although many Seniors are leaving, the J.V. players are prepared to meet future expectations and challenges.

Reaching High Goals

The Girls' Soccer Team reached many goals this year. They went all the way to the Regional Finals undefeated. Two members broke the record of most goals scored. They were Cynthia Goode (19) and Michele Barrett (19). All together the goals amounted to 110 for the Lady Lancers and only 4 against them. This was why they had an impressive record of 17-1. As Susan Matthews remarks, "We had a great season because we all worked together and had a great time. We are looking forward to next year."

Many players were recognized on the All District Teams. Players on the First District Team included Michele Barrett, Debbie Wade, Monique Povedano, Cynthia Goode, Latarnya Butts. Susan Matthews, Nikki Mashak, and Blanca Arevalo placed on the Second Team All District. Latarnya Butts, Michele Barrett, and Monique Povedano went on to make the First Team All Regional, while Debbie Wade placed on the Second Team All Regional. The team had an impressive season. As Coach Chaconas concludes, "This season was fun! We had excellent team work as well as some great individual performances. Our undefeated season was our best ever and we are looking forward to working hard next year so we can do it again!"

Shining Spirit

School spirit shines through in the enthusiastic cheers of the Varsity and J.V. Lancer cheerleaders. Hard work paid off at the summer camps attended by both squads. In June, the J.V. cheerleaders attended a camp sponsored by the Eastern Cheerleaders Association at Randolph-Macon College, while the Varsity attended an E.C.A. camp at the University of Maryland — Baltimore in August. Both squads overflowed with enthusiasm and were presented with numerous spirit awards. The J.V. cheerleaders even placed first over all other squads at the camp. J.V. and Varsity contributed items to jointly sponsor a family in the Adopt-A-Family program. Mutual effort was also present infund-raising activities, such as selling pom-poms during lunches and games. Practice time and team effort were key factors in a successful cheerleading squad. Without the cooperation of each and every squad member, it would have been impossible for the Manchester cheerleaders to ignite the crowd.

showing our ORGANIZATIONS

The hard work and outstanding effort put forth by Manchester's clubs had not gone unnoticed. The SCA organized the annual food drive, which was a great success. All contributed items were given to families, who were in need. Because of our great effort many families had a happy holiday. Other clubs did important fund drives also. The FBLA held several drives, including a type-a-thon, to raise money for A.S.K. The money was used to help parents of cancer patients. In all the endeavors that the clubs undertook 100% was given and the rewards will be long lasting. One of the more popular club activity this past year was the making of club t-shirts. Manchester's most creative minds designed them in all shapes, sizes, and colors. The Latin Club splatter painted their t's (along with many members). The Spanish Club ordered decorative shirts. It seems that every club has gotten into the t-shirt making business. The shirts served a unique purpose because now club members are easily picked out of the crowded hallways.

Future Scientists

The Science Club is an example of how a club which promotes academic acceleration can last. This year the club was sponsored by Mr. Bradley, and it was led by Duane Arruti. One of the major objectives was the printing of the newspaper, "The Mad Scientist." The publication was a huge success and provided much knowledge and enjoyment for all. "My favorite part was the 'What If . . . ' section," said Jeff Jones, the Vice President. Another Science Club activity was the planting of many azaleas around the school. It was a lot of hard work but will be appreciated by many future Manchester students.

Making Our Own History

The History Club was a great example of a club that knows how to stay active. They started the year with a trip to Hollywood Cemetery and the Civil War museum. In November they participated in the SCA Adopt-A-Family program. Their drive was a great success and much needed food was raised. For the annual banquet they went to L'Italia. A great time was enjoyed by all. During the Shakespeare festival the club went to Agecroft. The club was also responsible for the History bulletin board. The ideas for the presentations ranged from Black History to Women's History. The club's sponsor was Mrs. Vipperman and was led by Patrick Kirkman.

Brush "n" Canvas

1988 marked the debut of Manchester's new art club, Brush "n" Canvas, a club that encourages art. One of the main objectives of Brush "n" Canvas was to raise money to give as a scholarship to one of Manchester's students who plans to major in art in college.

They began the year with a successful poster sale and plan to continue this annually. Brush "n" Canvas hoped to organize a Tie Dye Day. Small after school trips to museums were possible. As with most clubs, Brush "n" Canvas was looking toward the future. The club planned to invite many guest speakers to talk about art in college and careers to students.

Unlike honorary clubs, Brush "n" Canvas does not have membership restrictions. Its purpose is to encourage art in all students, not just those taking an art class. As the first president, Sarah Darpli stated, "An interest in art is the only requirement for membership."

Mrs. Reinhardt, who was the sponsor for S.A.D.D., complemented this group for its first place float in the Homecoming parade. Several members really worked hard and gave great effort on this project. Among those were: April Duncam, Janie Burch, and Mike Reid.

Another event that S.A.D.D. participated a great deal was the Thanksgiving and Christmas Adopt-A-Family program. They were really helpful by supplying many things to the needy families.

Another event that took a lot of careful planning was S.A.D.D. awareness week. Valerie Arehart did a good job coordinating the week's events.

Top Vocalists Prove Their Talents

Things were a little different this year for Manchester's Capital Swing; however, in no way did these differences detract from its magnificence known to Manchester's students and faculty. This year seemed to bring one of the youngest groups of students to director, Mrs. Susan Wood, but initiative and energy made up for the loss in age. Also new to Capital Swing was a student choreographer from JMU, Carlos Barillo. He helped put together a spectacular show by spending his time and effort. His work was apparent at the fall weekend rehearsal at Holiday Lake, commonly referred to as the "48 hour aerobic session".

The work payed off for Capital Swing when they gave show-stopping performances at the Christmas and Spring concerts. During the year they gave concerts for our school and others in the area. Capital Swing also attended competitions in Raleigh, North Carolina; in Lynchburg, Virginia; and at JMU. At each, members of Capital Swing poured their hearts out to give tremendous performances.

Madrigals, also under the direction of Mrs. Susan Wood, had a successful year. The group worked long and hard to learn and perfect music ranging from Christmas traditionals to jazz selections. Each time, the product was the same — a meticulous performance. This could be seen at the annual Christmas and Spring concerts.

Madrigals also presented a Renaissance Madrigal dinner complete with Elizabethan carols, much activity, and even some dance.

Members of our choirs were able to audition for the All-Regional Chorus. This year Manchester was proud to send 28 members from these students an incredible number of 8 and 3 alternates were chosen for the prestigious All State Chorus. Congratulations to all that attended.

Raising Their Voices

The choral department has been a source of pride for Manchester High School for many years, and the 1988-1989 year held up this tradition. In the fall all six choral groups contributed to the spectacular performance Haydn's Missa brevis St. Joannis de Deo. Conducted by Dr. Donald Trott of Longwood College, it proved to be quite a success.

Under the direction of Mrs. Robin Moore-Raful, the Mixed Chorus, Girls Ensemble, Lance Singers, and Girls Show Choir had a busy year. Each participated in the annual Christmas and Spring concerts and the various school assemblies. Each also attended the choral festival and gave wonderful performances.

The Girls Show Choir was able to attend a festival, and they were also terrific helpers at the Madrigal dinner.

Foreign Language Fever

Even though the Latin Language might be "DEAD" the Club sure was not. The club's activities started over the summer with the painting of the T-shirts (and everything or everybody). They started the school year off with a good pizza party. Everyone got reacquainted with their fellow toga clad classmates. During the Holiday season the club adopted a family of four. Much money, food, and gifts were raised. To vent all EXAM frustrations they held a hot dog weenie roast.

Exam notes were used for fuel; all problems went up in smoke. The busy year was drawn to a close with the annual Roman Banquet. Lollipops? See the French Club. Selling the French Gourmet Lollipops was one of the most popular fund raisers this year. With the money the French Club sent one member to French Camp this July. The Club under the direction of Becky Lankey, president; Bruce Meyers, Vice president; Julie Ellis, secretary; Jay Morris, treasurer; Amy Howe, historian; has been very active this year. In the fall they worked on the Foreign Language Float for Homecoming and participated in adopt-a-family program at Thanksgiving and Christmas. They also went to the Snyder Home to play bingo with the elderly. The French Club also sponsors the members of the National French Honor Society. Added to their many activities are the banquets and tasting of French foods and drinks, such as La Fête des Rois, the cake with one lucky bean inside.

Hola!! Welcome to the Spanish Club! Here was a group that strongly supported "las fiestas." During their parties they initiated new members, tried new foods, and always had fun. Yet the Spanish Club did more than parties. Lead by their officers: Kerrie Bogaz, president; Valerie Areheart, vice president; Elsa Jimenez, secretary; Aisha Bailey, treasurer; and Charles Legget, historian, the Spanish Club adopted a family at Thanksgiving and Christmas. They adorned themselves with a gay Christmas spirit and went to spread cheer at the home for the elderly. In Spanish, they sang several Christmas tunes, which the elderly clearly enjoyed. Afterwards, the Spanish Club had dinner at La Siesta, and a great time was had by all. Some other duties of the Club were sending a student to Spanish Camp and sponsoring the National Spanish Honor Society.

SCA — Our Government

This year as with past years, Manchester's SCA has kept itself quite busy with various programs. Included among these were a very successful Homecoming dance and the float parade under the theme "A Midnight Masquerade." Other annual events that the SCA continued were the Christmas and Thanksgiving food drives. The blood drive was also a success with over 100 donors.

New activities for the SCA included the Data Match Computer matematching. This turned out to be one of Manchester's most entertaining and surprising events. This year marked the beginning of a new program, "Keep Manchester Clean." Through the SCA, clubs were given certain areas of the school to help beautify. The SCA also took on the enormous task of revising the SCA Constitution.

The year ended with the SCA assembly and installation of new officers. Asked if she was ready to give up her office, president Stacy Palmer quickly replied, "Although I have benefited from my position as SCA president, I feel that it is now time for someone with new ideas and enthusiasm to lead the school."

NHS — Getting Involved: Honor Societies and Writers To Be

The National Honor Society is an organization which promotes academic excellence. Its members are chosen for qualities such as scholarship, character, and their leadership abilities. The induction of new junior and senior members was held in November. During the 1988-1989 school year the society was engaged in many interesting activities. They participated in the Thanksgiving food drive and the Christmas food drive, and a few members answered phones for the Channel 23 telethon. The members also toured some Falling Creek students and comprised a panel of Manchester students who talked with our principals. Membership involves a lot of work on the students behalf.

President Bruce Myers commented that "the teamwork among this year's officers made NHS run like clockwork." He added that "Mrs. Breeden, the sponsor, has been incredible. Her organizational abilities strengthened the societies sense of direction."

All of the members this year helped in the society's success, but we must recognize the superb leadership of its five officers: Bruce Myers — president, Becky Lankey — vice-president, Stacey Palmer — secretary, Mike Ford — treasurer, and Stephen Watts — reporter/historian. The society really exerted itself this year and the high standards of both NHS and Manchester were upheld and reflected through the work of each individual.

Quill and Scroll is an international honor society for student journalists. Its members are selected from the Memoir staff and upon recommendation. This society tries to advance the standards of student journalism at Manchester.

The National French and Spanish Honor Societies recognize high achievement by French and Spanish students. The purpose of these groups is to encourage their language and a desire to learn.

To be in the Spanish Society one must have a 3.6 average in a minimum of five semesters of Spanish.

To be in the French Society a student must be in at least the second semester of French II with an A-average in French and a B-average in all other subjects.

Preparing For The Future

The FBLA was really on the move. The officers that organized these future business women and men were as follows: President, Cindy Dunnavant; Vice-President Dawn Walker; Secretary, Christie Parker; Treasurer, Christie Bernald; Parliamentarian, Tisha Branch; Reporter, Emily Williams; Historian, Chez Arruti. Some of the activities they participated in last year were the FBLA Fall Regional Conference and later the Spring Regional Conference, both at Virginia State University. They went to the State Leadership conference at the Richmond Marriott. During vocational week all FBLA club had many fund raisers. After they participated in the SCA M & M candy sales, they sold Christmas gifts and candy.

This year has been a busy year for FHA. They started the year off with many get togethers and guest speakers. During the holidays they went to Regency and did a little shopping. They also participated in the SCA food drive. The cake bake-off was a great success and many enjoyed the good food.

Through Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA) many MHS students gained leadership training as members with the assistance of sponsors to work together to accomplish goals which benefited both the school and community as well as the individuals themselves. VICA took part in the District and State Conferences for vocational clubs, and members competed in events which tested their skills and leadership abilities.

Distributive Educational Clubs of America (DECA) sponsored a most successful "coats for the needy" drive this year. With the help from many students and teachers, DECA was able to give over 200 coats to the needy people of Richmond. DECA also helped organize Expressions of Elegance, which was a beautiful d- play of the year's latest prom fashior This year the students were respon- ble for the display case which help to create much enthusiasm for bo Manchester and the fashion industr

Tootin' Their Horns

Holding two in school concerts the MHS bands, under the direction of Mr. Steve Barton, had a very successful year. Through his instruction the symphonic band received a superior rating at festival. MHS bands obtained several awards, including best jazz overall, and excellent ratings for both symphonic and marching bands at a performance at Williamsburg. The jazz band also performed at the Holiday Inn Kroger Center for other principals and staff members. With these awards the Manchester bands had yet another fantastic year.

Strike Up The Band

The Manchester Marching Band, under the direction of Mr. Barton, had many accomplishments to be proud of this year. This season was the first time for the drum line, led by Travis Roberts, to win second place. Also awarded second place trophies were drum majors Ann Johnson and Susanne Kumpf. The Auxiliaries achieved a third place finish, and they were led by captains Sarah Roberts, Belinda Dellinger, Audra Wilks, Stacy Carper, and Michelle Vestal. The Marching Lancers finished third overall.

Playing at a William and Mary game was a new and exciting event this year. They were invited to come back next year. Another performance was added when the band played in the Richmond Christmas Parade. A unique experience occurred to the band when they found an injured stray dog and then raised seventy-five dollars towards treatment at an animal hospital. In this rebuilding year, many new members combined with the experienced marchers to achieve these proud accomplishments.

Lights! Camera! Action!

Encore! Encore! These were the cries of the audience that viewed the Drama club's performances of Our Town and Taming of the Shrew. Their exceptional portrayal of these plays have earned them a special honor in the hearts of many a student and faculty member. Not only was the Drama club a vivid part in boosting school spirit, but they also participated in various extracurricular plays. Leading this club was the job of Katie Nichols — president, Patrick Kirkman — treasurer, and Stephen Watts — historian. Together they were able to lead the club to produce its first homecoming float and to initiate new members into the honorable Triptych Players. "Triptych Players" according to Stephen Watts, "was a great way to experience drama from the inside, rather than merely memorizing some of the outside characteristics for an English test."

A Big Business

With a $20,000 budget, yearbook was a big business. The new staff began working even before school was out during the previous year. Headed by co-editors-in-chief, LaTarnya Butts and Susanne Kumpf, the staff had summer meetings for instructional purposes and fund-raising. During the summer months and the beginning of the school year, members sold advertisements to businesses and individuals with the help of Christie Parker, financial manager. Working with the Sophomore Class, the staff sold citrus fruit, but a major portion of the income came from the sale of the yearbook.

Production started later in the year, when the 18 section editors got down to business. The eight color pages were new and exciting to create. To meet each of the four deadlines in the "yearbook marathon", early morning hours were utilized. The "marathon" occurred over the weekend before the deadline at one house for many hours at a time. Due to the fast pace and the number of pages, type sheets, spread sheets, and tools, it took quite a while for the house and the editors to recover.

The photography staff was headed by John Grewell, with help from Jeff Blevins. Trying to capture each event, they had a heavy workload, and they even handled the last minute, almost forgotten requests.

Bengetta Harris concentrates on explaining the basic layout.

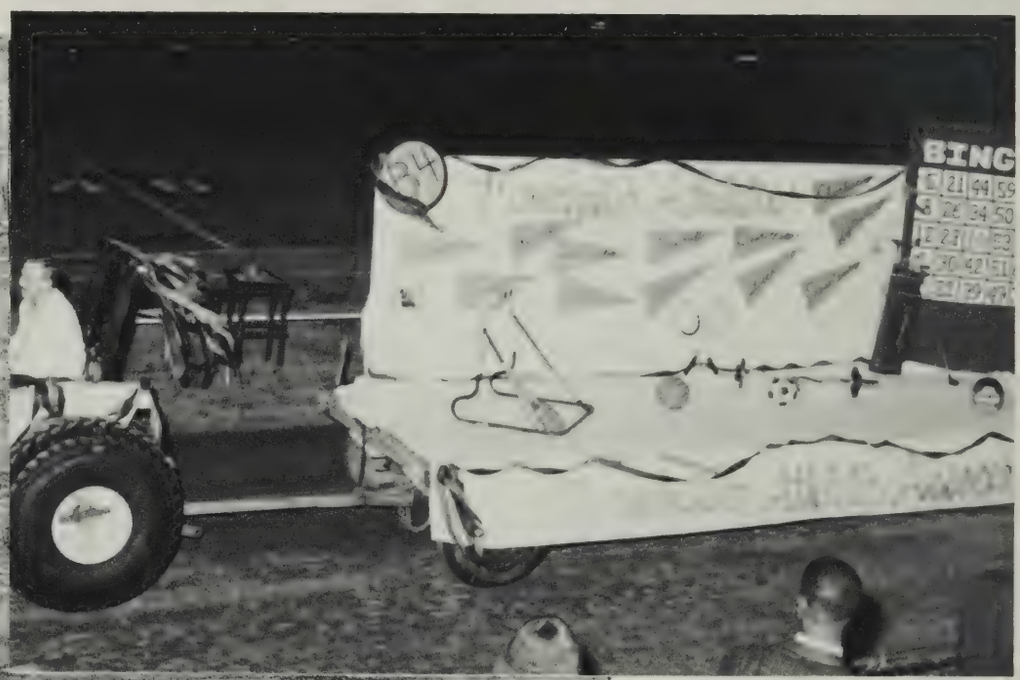
showing our COMMUNITY

Once again, the community surrounding Manchester High School showed its loyalty and support by assisting the school in its many endeavors. Parents volunteered their time and effort in helping the administrator's office with phone calls and messages. Volunteer adults ran the concession stands during football, basketball, and soccer seasons. Local businesses not only provided jobs for MHS students, but they also asked for student involvement in special activities such as the Cloverleaf Prom Fashion Show. Persons living in nearby subdivisions bought items ranging from M & Ms to grapefruit to support the many fundraisers by MHS organizations. Most of all, local businesses and individuals insured the success of an excellent yearbook by placing ads, donating money, and being patrons. Producing a yearbook is an extremely expensive adventure, and nothing could be possible without community assistance. Therefore, the yearbook staff would like to give a special thanks to all the parents, neighbors, and businesses that definitely helped MHS show our true colors.



The Manchester Athletic Association participates in the Homecoming Parade.

The empty halls of MHS are a rare sight indeed.

COLOPHON

Last but not least, the 1989 Memoir, Volume 51 of Manchester High School, was printed by Herff Jones, Inc. of Gettysburg, Pennsylvania. This edition ran 660 copies of 192 pages and was printed on 80 pound Bordeaux paper.

Credit for the basic thematic design is given to Herff Jones' Art Department with adaptions made by co-editors-in-chief LaTarnya Butts and Susanne Kumpf. The silk screen process was used; base material was Leather Tex Smoky Blue and HJ Gold on padded covers. Endsheets were White. The majority of copy was in Chelsea Light with variations throughout the yearbook. Typesize for copy was in 10 pt. and 12 pt.; typesize for headlines varied. Captions were in 8 pt. For the first time in several years, the 1989 Memori included 8 pages of full color and spot color. Shades of 10% and 30% grey were used also.

The co-editors-in-chief would like to thank many people: Mr. Pascarella, sponsor; Mr. Smith, Herff Jones Rep.; Mr. Jennings, Delmar Studios photographer; Mr. Jones, principal; Mrs. Frymier, Mrs. Henry, and Ms. Marshall, librarians; and Memoir patrons.

Most of all, thanks and credit must be given to the staff, especially the section editors: Amy Callahan and Kim Pope, Lancer Life; Susan Burnup and Jessica Maerz, Academics; Bruce Myers and Becky Lankey, Seniors; Kim Bradham and Paurenia Boyd, Juniors; Jennifer Parker and Jennie Trout, Sophomores; Kalpana Shenoy and Lynn Lawson, Freshman; Bengetta Harris and Jill Smith, Clubs; Victor Hoerst and Phil Wendt, Faculty; Bitsy Little and Melanie Abernathy, Sports; Christie Parker, Business Manager; Amanda Delehanty, Index; June Stell and Gene Denmark, Computer Workers; and John Grewell and Jeff Blevins, photographers.

Due to the timing of the final deadline, the index was not completely updated. Therefore, some names may not be present in the index although corresponding persons may be present within the pages of the yearbook.

At one of their last moments together as a class, Seniors are prepared for their future.

The Road Not Taken

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I —
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

— Robert Frost

This book is dedicated to Mr. John Thornton and Mrs. Helen Brown; their presence at Manchest will be greatly missed.
